He is a forcible speaker, and will no doubt make a telling and timely speech.

AMUSEMENTS. "The Private Secretary."

At Leubrie's Theater Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday and at matinee Wednesday a Madison Square company will present their great success, The Private Secretary. The Times-Democrat, of New Orleans, where the play has been very successful the past week, devotes half a column to a criticism of it. That journal says: "A great deal of curiosity was felt here to witness the new departure of the Madison Square Theater in presenting a play the direct opposite of the sentimental school of productions which they have always given, hence there was a large and select audience at the Academy of Music Ilast night to enjoy The Private Secretary. The play, which is correctly termed a farcical comediate.

last night to enjoy The Pricate Secretary. The play, which is correctly termed a farelead comedy, had such a run in London that it was secured by the Rev. Mr. Mallory for his Madison Square Theater, notwithstanding the fact that a clergy-man creates the fun of the piece. The new departure provad a success, however, and the same special audiences that attended the mild dramas formerly produced now laugh at the upravious fun of the innocent preacher. The fun is caused by Douglas Cattermole, a young fellow sowing his wi'd only, assuming the character of the 'Ber. Robert Spaulding,' who has been sent for to assume the position of private secretary to 'Mr. Marsland,' a country squire. The genuine preacher makes his appearance, and is abu ea as a milksop by 'Mr. Cattermole,' the rich East Indian uncle, who, having been somewhat of a scapegrace himself in his young days, is anxious to find his nephew a young man of that description. He meets the disguised nephew at the
